

Nicholas Groombridge
Partner, Weil Gotshal & Manges LLP

Nicholas Groombridge is co-chair of Weil Gotshal's Patent Litigation practice. Over the past 20 years, he has been extensively involved in all aspects of patent litigation, and has been lead counsel in numerous patent cases both in trial court and on appeal. Mr. Groombridge has litigated patents in a wide variety of technical areas with particular emphasis on pharmaceuticals and biotechnology. He has handled matters involving assays, biologics, bioinformatics, diagnostics, drugs (both prescription and over-the-counter), drug delivery systems, expression systems and nucleic acid sequencing for such clients as Abbott, Applied Biosystems, BiogenIdec, Genentech, GlaxoSmithKline, Merck, Novartis, Pfizer, Sanofi-aventis and Wyeth. Mr. Groombridge is a frequent speaker on current developments in patent law, particularly issues relating to the life sciences field. He currently co-teaches courses on patent litigation at Columbia Law School, on pharmaceutical patent law at Rutgers Law School and bio-tech patent law at New York University School of Law. He has been quoted on intellectual property law issues in leading professional and business publications, including the Wall Street Journal, Fortune and the Financial Times, as well as pharma industry publications such as Scrip and the Pink Sheet. Mr. Groombridge has been named as a leader in the field of Intellectual Property by Chambers USA - America's Leading Lawyers for Business 2010, one of the Lawdragon 500 Leading Litigators in the US, and as an expert in patent law in Guide to the World's Leading Patent Practitioners 2010. He is a member of the board of directors of the Federal Circuit Bar Association.