

Jennifer L. Pariser
Executive Director, Academic Outreach
Motion Picture Association of America

Jennifer serves as the Executive Director of Academic Outreach at the MPAA. She manages the movie studios' relationship with colleges and law schools throughout the world and also oversees the MPAA's anti-piracy notice program in North America. She provides counsel on a wide range of intellectual property and other legal issues for the association. Jennifer previously served as head of litigation at the Recording Industry Association where she oversaw the recording industry's lawsuits against many Internet sites including Grokster and Limewire. She also served as head of litigation at Sony Music where she handled many significant copyright and other IP matters. Prior to that she was an associate with the firms Patterson, Belknap, Webb & Tyler and Debevoise & Plimpton in New York and also served as a judicial clerk to the Honorable Charles Tenney in the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York. She graduated from New York University Law School in 1989 where she was a member of the Law Review. She lectures extensively on copyright topics including at the Copyright Society of the USA, the American and New York Bar Associations, PLI and various law schools.