

Aaron Cooper serves as Vice President, Strategic Policy Initiatives with BSA | The Software Alliance. He provides advice on policy priorities for BSA and its members.

Prior to joining BSA, Aaron served for Chairman Patrick Leahy on the Senate Committee on the Judiciary as the Committee's Chief Counsel for Intellectual Property and Antitrust Law. In this role, Aaron had primary responsibility for all aspects of Chairman Leahy's IP and antitrust initiatives, including drafting, negotiating, and developing the legislative strategy for enactment of the Leahy-Smith America Invents Act. Aaron worked for Chairman Leahy from 2006 through 2013.

Most recently, Aaron was of counsel at Covington and Burling, where he provided strategic counseling and policy advice on a range of intellectual property and privacy issues. Aaron has also served as Legal Counsel to Senator Paul Sarbanes.

Aaron is a graduate of Princeton University and Vanderbilt Law School. He clerked for Judge Gerald Tjoflat on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit.