

Professor Leaffer, is an internationally known intellectual property law scholar. He received his J.D at the University of Texas and his LLM in Trade Regulation at New York University Law School.

He is the author of three books and numerous articles, including the best-selling treatise, Understanding Copyright Law, now in its Sixth edition. Professor Leaffer is also the author of Copyright Law: Cases and Materials, 10th edition and International Treaties on Intellectual Property, 2d edition.

Before becoming a full time teacher, Professor Leaffer practiced trademark law in New York City with American Home Products Corporation, and the firm of Haseltine, Lake and Waters. He also has served in Attorney-Advisor positions in the United States Patent and Trademark Office, and on the staff of the General Counsel of the United States Copyright Office.

He is a popular speaker in both the United States and Europe on all areas of intellectual property law, and has been honored as both a scholar and lecturer. He currently serves on the international executive committee of the Association Littéraire et Artistique Internationale, a non-governmental institution, based in Paris, that promotes the rights of authors worldwide. At Indiana since 1997, Professor Leaffer teaches Copyright Law, Trademark Law, Intellectual Property Survey, and International Intellectual Property. His current research focuses on the interplay of intellectual property law in a global marketplace.