

James Nurton, managing editor, Managing Intellectual Property

James is responsible for coordinating Managing IP's editorial and research team, planning editorial coverage and editing articles. He also works on seminars, webinars and awards dinners, and edits conference newspapers including the INTA Daily News and AIPPI Congress News.

He attends many IP-related events, often as a moderator/chair, and has interviewed most of the leading figures in IP over the past 20 years. He is a member of the MARQUES Communications and Membership Team and contributes a monthly interview to OHIM's Alicante News.

James studied history at Oxford University and Birkbeck College, London, writing a dissertation on Gandhi. He joined Managing IP in 1996. He lives in south London with his wife Becky and enjoys travelling, cooking, playing and watching cricket and cycling to and from the office. He is also a trustee of two local charities.