

Eric A. Prager is a partner in the New York office of K&L Gates LLP. He has focused his practice on intellectual property matters for more than 20 years is co-chair of the firm's Advertising and Marketing Law practice. He handles both contentious and non-contentious engagements, including strategic counseling, due diligence of IP assets, complex licensing and agreement work, and litigation.

Eric is a frequent writer and speaker on IP issues. He co-chairs an annual two-day PLI program called "Intellectual Property Issues in Business Transactions," and he has co-developed and chaired an annual two-day LSI program called "Standard Setting and Patent Pools." Eric serves as an Adjunct Professor at Fordham Law School and is teaching a Trademark Law class this semester.

Eric has served on the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office Public Advisory Committee for Trademark Affairs. He also assisted, as a member of the Intellectual Property Constituency of the Internet Corporation for Assigned Names and Numbers (ICANN), in developing the uniform dispute resolution policy that ICANN requires accredited registrars to follow.

Eric was engaged by the World Intellectual Property Organization (WIPO), a specialized agency of the United Nations, to assist in drafting several "digital agenda" copyright treaties, including the WIPO Copyright Treaty, the WIPO Performances and Phonograms Treaty, and a proposed treaty on the protection of databases.

Prior to joining K&L Gates in 2008, Eric was a partner in the New York and Seattle offices of an intellectual property boutique law firm. He is a graduate of Fordham Law School and Columbia College.
